

COMMUNAL PIPE: A glimmering, exotic-looking pipe, which can be smoked by four persons simultaneously, was confiscated in a raid by law enforcement officers near Union Pier Friday night. Officers seized the pipe, an amount of plant material believed to be marijuana worth about $45, and arrested 18 persons, including a 16-year-old boy. UNION PIER — Twenty-five persons, including 18 from a summer cottage here and seven from a beach in Warren Dunes state park, were arrested on alleged narcotics violations late Friday night.

The raid at the cottage at 15529 Streed avenue in Chikaming township was based upon a tip from an informant and carried out by state police from the New Buffalo post, Berrien county sheriff's detectives and township police, a state police spokesman said early today.

The cottage belonged to Joseph Snajdar, who state police identified as one of those arrested on suspicion of possession of marijuana.

A quantity of plant material believed to be marijuana and valued at about $45 was confiscated, along with a large communal smoking pipe, the state police spokesman said.

A tip from an informant led to the raid on the cottage, according to sheriff's detectives Fred Reeves and Gary Methling.

The arrested persons were to be arraigned today in Fifth District court in Berrien county.

Many of those taken into custody at the cottage were from out-of-state and reportedly on a vacation trip, while all of those arrested in the state park were from South Bend, state police said.

The arrests at the state park came as troopers were investigating what the state police spokesman described as a "loud party."

Along with the 16-year-old juvenile arrested at the cottage, other persons taken into custody there were identified by state police as:

Mitchell Kristan, 18, Joseph Snajdar, 18, John Strubbs, 18, Robert Libas, 19, Edward Devanage, 19, Gint Juodgudis, 17, Roberto Ramanoskas, 22, John Stevens, 22, Nijole Ky-cargas, 19, Ausra Karaitis, 19, and Carmen Carvajal, 19, all of Chicago; Michael Dinning, 20 and Elizabeth Dinning, 19, both of Pittsburgh; Michael Hennessy, 21, and Penelope Hennessy, 20, Deh-oach Pawcett, 22, all of Pennsylvania; and Louis Simon, 18, of New Buffalo.

Those arrested at the state park were identified as Douglas Little, 20, Albert Stchur-ski, 18, Mark Elliott, 21, Kyle Harness, 19, Andrew Haffron, 20, Craig Elliott, 20, and John Miller, 19, all of South Bend.

Zollar One Of 5 Named On Welfare Suit Panel

State Sen. Charles O. Zollar was named to a five-man special committee authorized by the Senate Friday to look into the possibility of suing the federal government over welfare regulations.

The committee was established on a resolution sponsored by Zollar. The measure carried by voice vote without dissent.

Named to the committee along with the Benton Harbor Republican were two other Republicans — Senate GOP leader Robert VanderLaan, Kentwood, and Oscar Bouwsma, Muskegon — and two Democrats — minority leader George Fitzgerald, Grosse Pointe, and Coleman Young, Detroit.

The committee is empowered to operate through Dec. 31, 1974, and authorized to "do all things necessary to overcome the discriminatory practices of the federal government in welfare matters, including by way of expansion and not limitation, the right to bring necessary court actions against the federal government and its agencies."

Zollar has charged that federal welfare policies violate the 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution by denying equal protection of the laws to Michigan and other states which must pay up to 50 per cent of the cost of welfare while other states get off for as little as 20 per cent. The federal government pays the share not funded by the states.

In other action Friday, the Senate defeated a resolution asking Congress to amend the U.S. Constitution to allow "voluntary prayer by students in public schools."

That resolution, passed earlier by the House, contended that "the denial of the opportunity to pray in the course of his daily activities deprives the student of the valuable training of making prayer a part of his everyday life."

The U.S. Supreme Court has ruled against organized prayer in public schools.

Opposing the resolution, Sen. Daniel Cooper, D-Oak Park, challenged backers to "tell me when a kid can't say a prayer."

Cooper, who is Jewish, noted the daily prayers that begin each legislative session and said 95 per cent are Christian prayers and said he did not subscribe to them but accepted them "in the humane spirit." But, he said, "I don't want prayer in government sponsored institutions."

The resolution was defeated on a vote of 9-10.

High School Set Likes Sen. Muskie

NEW YORK (AP) — Democratic Sen. Edmund Muskie emerged as the most popular presidential candidate in a nationwide poll of 23,000 high school leaders. Republican President Nixon was second, followed by four other Democrats. The poll also showed that in head-to-head pairings, any Democrat except Hubert Humphrey was the choice over Nixon.

Sniffing Aerosol Can Fatal To Gobles Teen

By STEVE McQUOWN
Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW—A Gobles youth who apparently was sniffing deodorant sprayed from an aerosol can died early today, according to state police from the Paw Paw post.

The youth was identified by Trooper Dennis Reinsch as Robert Whittle, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Whittle who live on M-40, south of Gobles.

Reinsch said Whittle was camping with two other Paw Paw teenage boys, both 16, and a 17-year-old Kalamazoo girl in a wooded area southeast of the M-40, M-43 intersection, in Almena township.

Troopers quoted Whittle's companions as saying the group had been spraying the deodorant into a rag which they held to their noses.

They reported that about 1 a.m., Whittle lapsed into unconsciousness and they were unable to revive him by mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

They told Reinsch that they then walked the half-mile from their camping area to a car and summoned state police to the scene.

State police were notified about 2 a.m., about an hour after Whittle had passed out, Reinsch said.

He said Dr. J. Millard, a deputy medical examiner from Paw Paw, pronounced Whittle dead at the scene, apparently from asphyxiation.

No narcotics were found at the camp scene, Reinsch said. He said the death is still under investigation.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete at the Hawley funeral home in Paw Paw.

38-Year-Old Debt Paid To Berrien

By BRANDON BROWN
Staff Writer

Berrien county government received a $300 personal check Friday from an Arkansas hospitalized at county expense.

That in itself may be unusual.

But Irvin C. Peters' hospitalization was in 1932-33. "I am enclosing a check for three hundred dollars in payment for services rendered me at the university hospital at Ann Arbor, Mich., during a period from October, 1932, until sometime in 1933," said Peters' letter to County Treasurer William C. Heyn.

"I truly appreciate what was done for me at the hospital and the expense the county went to for me," it added.

At the time, the letter noted, Peters lived at 369 Bluff court, Benton Harbor. Presently he's a rural Pottsville, Ark., resident.

Heyn said he'll pen a personal "thank you" to Peters. The $300 check will go in the county general fund.

Farm Wives Take Aim

Watch Out, Big Uncle!

By JERRY KRIEGER
County-Farm Editor

SISTER LAKES — An action group of farm wives is setting out to attempt a job their husbands and the male-dominated farm organizations have failed at.

Twenty southwestern Michigan women met here this week to start an organization that will aim to tell the farmer's story to the residents of the big urban populations in Michigan.

Specifically, they want the urban consumers to know that the food prices in the stores bear very little resemblance to the "disastrous prices" received by growers for fruits and vegetables in particular.

At their first meeting this week, the group also discussed the "harassment" that farmers are undergoing from several federally-funded agencies, and the multitude of farm labor legislation that has affected them in the past seasons.

Mrs. Robert Canfield of Decatur, a spokesman for the new group, explained the aim as wanting to counteract, and counter attack against the economic and political pressures that is making fruit and vegetable farming "so difficult" these days.

The first step of the group was to issue an invitation to other interested women to join them at a meeting scheduled for Tuesday, Aug. 24, at the Sister Lakes fire station, starting at 8 p.m. Officers will be elected and plans will be developed for the committee's future course of action.

The name taken by the group is "Women for the Survival of Agriculture in Michigan."

Go Get 'Em, Charlie

State Sen. Charles O. Zollar, the arch foe of rising welfare costs, got a leg into the saddle Friday morning in his battle to equalize the federal assistance formula throughout the 51 states.

The Michigan Senate unanimously adopted his resolution authorizing a special committee to take the Administration, specifically HEW, into court for that purpose.

HEW's reimbursement system, derived from loosely worded legislation, is a composite economic theorem which he tried to analyze it in depth would cause a rational man to tear out his hair.

Its starting premise is the same as with many federal assistance programs. Uncle Sam will shell out part of the expense if the receiving states or local communities raise some matching funds. Washington reserves unto itself the determination of what the total fund shall be and how it shall be distributed.

Since all the state governments believe they could not shoulder an individual, self administered relief plan, every one of them comes under HEW's rules and regulations.

The second premise is a rough cost of living approximation for a welfare client. This varies from one locality to the next, but wherever the reliever may reside there is a rock bottom figure to provide him with food clothing, and shelter. Medical attention is another part of the equation but this is separately financed through Medicaid or Medicare.

The states have some latitude in defining rock bottom. They can raise the limits which HEW sets as a subsistence minimum. HEW, in turn, will increase its dollar matching but not necessarily in the proportion to which the individual state may alter their definition of rock bottom.

There is also a reverse English in this determination. If a state tries to hold the benefits to a level which HEW feels unwarranted, it can lose its entire federal funding. Indiana experienced this roughing up only two weeks ago when its legislature voted to expunge what it considered some frills from its hand-out. The Hoosiers reversed themselves quickly.

HEW's theory reads well on paper.

Obviously it costs more to live in Michigan than it does in Mississippi. The same disparity between their financial capabilities to meet local problems is equally apparent.

Thus if it takes $200 a month to support a family in Mississippi as against $400 in Michigan, it makes sense to HEW to pay 78 per cent or $166 of the Mississippi bill but only 50 per cent or $200 of the Michigan charge.

The hole in the argument is that comparative living costs are lost on most people. What impresses them is the income.

Be it the first glance or the last, $400 looks twice as good as $200.

A few years ago when John Swainson took over as Governor after Soapy Williams joined the Kennedy Administration and the Democrats controlled the legislature, Michigan's rock bottom determination was increased substantially.

Our state joined the parade of the northern industrialized area paying high relief benefits.

No wonder the northern states have become a welfare hunting ground and why all of them are overtaxed to meet rising relief costs.

To some extent the residency requirement held back that flood, but in 1969 the U.S. Supreme Court outlawed that common-sense measure.

Last week Governor Rockefeller lost a bid before the U.S. Court of Appeals to obtain a reconsideration of the ruling.

Zollar is not deterred by this setback.

Actually Congress should set a uniform reimbursement formula.

There is so little chance in getting through the Congressional thicket on this approach that going to court again is the only available hope.

Export Fallacies

It is easier for the other fellow to put his house in order, it seems, than to get around to doing one's own hard chores. This is the conclusion to be reached by listening to balance of payments soothsayers who insist the trouble lies with an American business community which is too hesitant to expand its overseas markets.

Cut prices (not costs) and see how fast foreign buyers grab American made products in preference to those of competitors, is the gist of the argument.

Unfortunately, the idea that the price of a commodity is established by the whim of the producer doesn't hold up very well under analysis. The producer who sells his surplus capacity at cost or at a drastically reduced profit soon finds himself with worn-out facilities, shrinking markets for profitable items and no resources for expansion or modernization.

Just how this type of producer is expected to venture into foreign sales markets or engage in new capital ventures overseas it is difficult to fathom. But what about the approach of most American producers, and the results of their activities overseas? Have they been successful? Immediately after World War II it was easy for most American producers to expand exports, especially in war-torn Europe. European industries were devastated and there were tremendous demands to be met.

It didn't take the industrious nations of Europe or Japan long to rebuild their manufacturing facilities and begin to give American manufacturers competition unlike any they had experienced even in prewar years. The quality of the products coming from the factories of Europe and Japan today is high.

Certainly the American business community would like nothing better than to expand its overseas sales, and it is working incessantly to that end. But it is a travesty of elemental justice to maintain the only way out of the United States' dangerous imbalance in its international accounts is for the business community to reduce profits.

The one-way street thus entered would be that of contraction, not expansion.

Hirsute Revival

The wig renaissance has brought some interesting additions to the fashion world, not the least of which is increasing acceptance of hair pieces among men. Nor are male wigs simply coverups for balding pates. Some men, like many women, now wear them as fashion accessories.

Wigs for men are nothing new. During the 18th century they were the rule rather than the exception. After the French and American revolutions, the wigs were disdained as symbols of class and gradually began to disappear.

There is nothing class conscious about modern wigs. They come in flamboyant and sedate styles, and are worn by poor and wealthy alike. Always, however, they can change a person's appearance considerably.

Discretion dictates to be wary of challenging that stranger who comes into the office acting as if he owns the place. That could be the boss, fresh from a visit to the corner boutique.

More than 2,500 gallons of water may evaporate from an acre of forest in just one day.

GALLIEN'S ORDEAL

As we walk down the streets of our town
There is a cheery good morning and never a frown.
We say hello to all, but don't stop to chat.
We're just too busy, but there is a tip of the hat.
It's a friendly town.

I dreaded the day when the government would say
I'm going to take your town today.
The people would surely be very
up tight,
Not know what to do and know how to fight.
They love their town.

Then God came and took three stores away.
No one knew why or what to say.
God knew to save trouble this was the best;
Friends would be friends and time would heal rest.
It's God's town.

So now we still have freedom in our little place.
The thing we love very dearly
in this case.
The boys are fighting for this very thing:
For freedom and justice that they can bring.
It's a good town.

The firemen came from far and near,
Fought fire real hard with never a fear.
God watched over them
throughout the night.
Not enough praise and thank you would make it right.
They saved our town.

The store still stands across the street.
Where the older men gather each day, it's a treat.
To tell what happened to their
wife and kin,
And bring news of their friends
and other old men.
They settled this town.

The place it grows dearer as older we grow
And try to think of good deeds
to sow.
So this is my prayer:
Long may our land be bright
With freedom's holy light,
Protect us by Thy might,
Great God, our King.

DECISION TOO LATE TO CHANGE BALLOTS

The Lakeshore School District votes Monday, Aug. 16, on increasing the limitation on the millage which can be levied to support its schools. The ballot will list an increase of 9.5 mills since this is what the petitions asked. However, the Board of Education has pledged that it will levy only 7 mills if the 9.5 mill increase is approved by the voters.

It is important for the voters to realize that they will see 9.5 mills when they enter the voting booth. When the school board made its pledge last Monday it was simply too late to change the ballot. Also, absentee ballots had long since been printed and had, in many cases, been voted and returned before last Monday.

We urge all voters to accept the pledge of the Board of Education and vote yes on Monday so the Standard of Education at Lakeshore can be maintained.

ST. JOE COMMISSION MUFFLES CIVIL RIGHTS

Your newspaper for Tuesday, August 10, Section One, page seven, column eight, in an article about the St. Joseph city commission's action the previous night, reads as follows:

"The commissioners denied a request by Weldun Tool and Engineering Co. of Bridgman to have a 'rock band' play at its annual picnic at Riverview park. Hill explained that the commission passed a resolution in July, 1970 prohibiting the use of amplified bands in city parks."

Mr. Hill's explanation is misleading. It would be in violation of the Constitution of the United States to enact an ordinance to that effect. Indeed, no such ordinance exists in the City of St. Joseph, Michigan.

Undoubtedly, a resolution to that effect was passed. This discriminatory action circumvents the spirit of the Constitution of our country by enacting and enforcing a resolution as though it were in fact an ordinance. It is my understanding that such a resolution cannot be questioned in court because it is not a law nor an ordinance.

The ordinance passed by the City of St. Joseph on July 13, 1970, reads as follows:

"Chapter 30 - Common Misdemeanors:

"30.02 - AMPLIFIED NOISE. No person shall operate a sound amplifier, loudspeaker or sound apparatus, whether stationary or mounted in or on a vehicle or trailer, on any street, alley or public place without first obtaining a permit to do so from the City Manager."

Apparently, permits aren't granted to rock groups. Technically, you operate your car radio and the transistor radio in your hand in violation of this ordinance if you use them on the street, the beach, or in a park without a permit.

The last I knew, no one had asked the churches to obtain permits for their amplified bells and chimes.

Twin City Youth Sings had no trouble using amplified sound at Riverview Park. Most of the songs were chosen to appeal to their elders, but there were even a few rock numbers. There were a couple of long haired rock musicians playing in the instrumental group which accompanied the singers.

It is obvious that our City Fathers discriminate on the basis of personal taste. They don't like rock music, so they presume the rest of the community, at least the majority, shares their taste, and prohibit its being played in public places within the city. The tastes of the vast majority of young people can safely be disregarded. They are a minority among us.

Unfortunately, no one with enough money to take the issue to court, cares enough about this particular violation of civil rights to do anything about it. Hey, 18-year-olds, are you registered to vote?

Sincerely,
PHYLLIS STORY,

DR. COLEMAN

..And Speaking Of Your Health

COURAGEOUS surgery for the treatment of hardening of the coronary arteries was one of the many distinguished exhibits at the meetings of the American Medical Association in New Jersey.

The coronary arteries are the lifeline of the heart. Through them pass the vital oxygen without which this remarkable muscle cannot function.

When the artery is narrowed by deposits of calcium, as in arteriosclerosis, an inadequate amount of blood flows through it. Dr. Coleman

The burden on the heart muscle may, in some cases, reflect itself in chest pain. This is known as angina.

When there is a progressive lessening of the blood flow to the heart, a coronary heart attack may result.

When symptoms suggest disease of the coronary arteries, and when complex X-ray studies show this to be factual, surgery may be the way to save the hearts and lives of people destined otherwise for invalidism or fatality.

Dr. C. Walton Lillie and his colleagues, Dr. Arnold Lande and Dr. Robert G. Carlson, all of the New York Hospital Cornell Medical Center, demonstrated at the meetings methods by which a new supply of blood can be brought to the heart by surgery.

Arteries blocked by calcium deposits can be by-passed, with grafts to bring more blood to the heart muscle.

In other surgery, calcium deposits can actually be removed from the blocked coronary arteries, thus allowing blood to flow freely to the heart muscle.

Many modifications of this surgery are being performed all over the country, bringing greater hope for survival each year.

One of the ultimate hopes of science is to find a way to detect cancer anywhere in the body long before symptoms are apparent.

At the Hadassah Medical Center in Jerusalem, Dr. Chloee Tal has devised a test by which some cases of malignant disease can be recognized.

A very special type of protein known as "T-globulin" seems to point the way for this very valuable diagnostic tool. It is hoped that Dr. Tal's findings will be completely verified because the test is an easy one to perform, and its results are most significant.

Newborn infants kept at the mother's side from the time of delivery seem to cry less and gain weight more rapidly.

Dr. A. William Lilley, a New Zealand obstetrician, said that in one hospital that he visited in Bangkok there was a large room full of new mothers with their infants. He reports that there was not a cry to be heard.

What a way to diminish noise pollution!

Dr. Lester Coleman has prepared a special booklet for readers of the column entitled, "Pay Attention to Your Heart." For your copy, send 25 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed 8-cent stamped envelope to care of this newspaper. Please mention the booklet by title.

Opening lead - ten of diamonds.

The careful dummy player does not relax merely because he sees there is an excellent chance for the contract. He always goes a step beyond that to see whether or not there is an even surer - preferably cast iron - way to make it. Today's hand constitutes a fine example of the art.

West led a diamond and South could immediately count eleven tricks. A twelfth trick was available if either a heart or club finesse succeeded, and the odds in favor of one or both finesses succeeding were 3-to-1.

But 3-to-1 shots have been known to fail and, in fact, had declared relied solely on these odds, he would have gone down. Instead, he substituted a method of play 100% sure to win.

He won the diamond lead with the ace and, after drawing three rounds of trumps, he cashed the JQ of diamonds. The clincher came when he did not cash the king.

Let's say he had cashed the king and discarded a heart. If he now took either a heart or club finesse he would go down. Which ever finesse he elected to take, West would win with the king and return the suit. Eventually, South would take the other finesse, lose it, and down the drain would go the slam.

Instead, South played a low heart from dummy at trick seven and finessed at the eight. West won with the ten but had to return either a heart or a club to give declarer a free finesse and the slam as well.

The inevitable effect of delaying the discard on the king of diamonds was that it put West into an endplay position from which he could not escape, and changed a 75% likelihood of success to 100%.

Lakeshore Trying Again On Millage

Third Vote Slated Monday

Residents of the Lakeshore school district will be asked in an election Monday to approve the levying of up to 9.5 mills to finance school operations in the coming year.

The board, in a statement issued earlier this week, has pledged to levy only 7 mills should the 9.5 figure be approved.

Supt. Lionel Stacey summed up the situation this way in commenting Friday on the upcoming vote:

"I feel the Lakeshore board of education has done its level best to listen to the community in its decision to levy only seven mills."

UP TO VOTERS

"It is now up to the community to determine whether or not they want to maintain a good educational program."

Two other requests this year for 9.5 mills in operating funds were turned down by voters. Rejection in balloting June 14 was by the narrow margin of 30 votes.

The election Monday was petitioned by an independent group of district residents which formed after defeat of the first two proposals.

The group, known as the Lakeshore Committee for Better Education, filed petitions containing over 700 signatures requesting a new vote on the issue.

SECOND GROUP

A second citizens unit, the Lakeshore Citizens Majority for Rational, Reasonable Reconsideration, surfaced after the Aug. 16 election date was established and sought an alternative to the 9.5-mill proposal.

James F. Piechorowski, spokesman, proposed to the board that the 9.5-mill package be split into two separate issues: renewal of an expiring 6 mills and the addition of a new 3.5-mill levy.

Piechorowski and his supporters filed petitions with nearly 1,000 signatures seeking the split balloting.

The petitions were later rejected when the district's attorneys raised questions over wording of the documents.

EFFORTS REWARDED

The group's efforts, however, were apparently rewarded with the board's decision to levy only 7 mills should Monday's proposal be approved.

Piechorowski, in a statement issued Tuesday, said the citizens unit supported the action of the board and recommended passage of the millage issue.

The statement said in part:

"We wish to extend our support to the Lakeshore area board of education's decision to seek a limitation of the levy to be voted on Aug. 16."

"We feel that although this still does not present the voter with a choice it does reflect the good faith and responsiveness of the board to the voice of the people."

"We encourage all parties who have signed our petitions to support the board of education and more importantly the children of Lakeshore school district by passing the proposal."

The 7 mills the board has pledged to levy would raise $441,000 toward a projected 1971-72 budget of approximately $2.8 million.

A total of $208,000 in budget cuts will be initiated even if the millage is approved Monday.

The board, following rejection of the two earlier millage issues, released eight teachers and the planned hiring of eleven other staff members to keep abreast of increased enrollments, was rejected.

The possible discontinuance of the bus program was also considered, Stacey said Friday, however, that buses will run should the millage be approved.

Convictions Returned In Two Trials

Berrien circuit court juries late Friday reached verdicts of guilty in two cases, one a misdemeanor and the other a felony.

Jurors deliberated nearly two hours in Judge Chester J. Byrns' court before reaching a guilty verdict against Joliet Nelson, 45, of 1027 Monroe street, Benton Harbor, on an assault with a dangerous weapon charge.

It alleged he assaulted George Ferguson with a .38-caliber derringer last April 29 at Main and Colfax streets in Benton Harbor.

Nelson continues free on $2,000 bond pending sentencing up to four years.

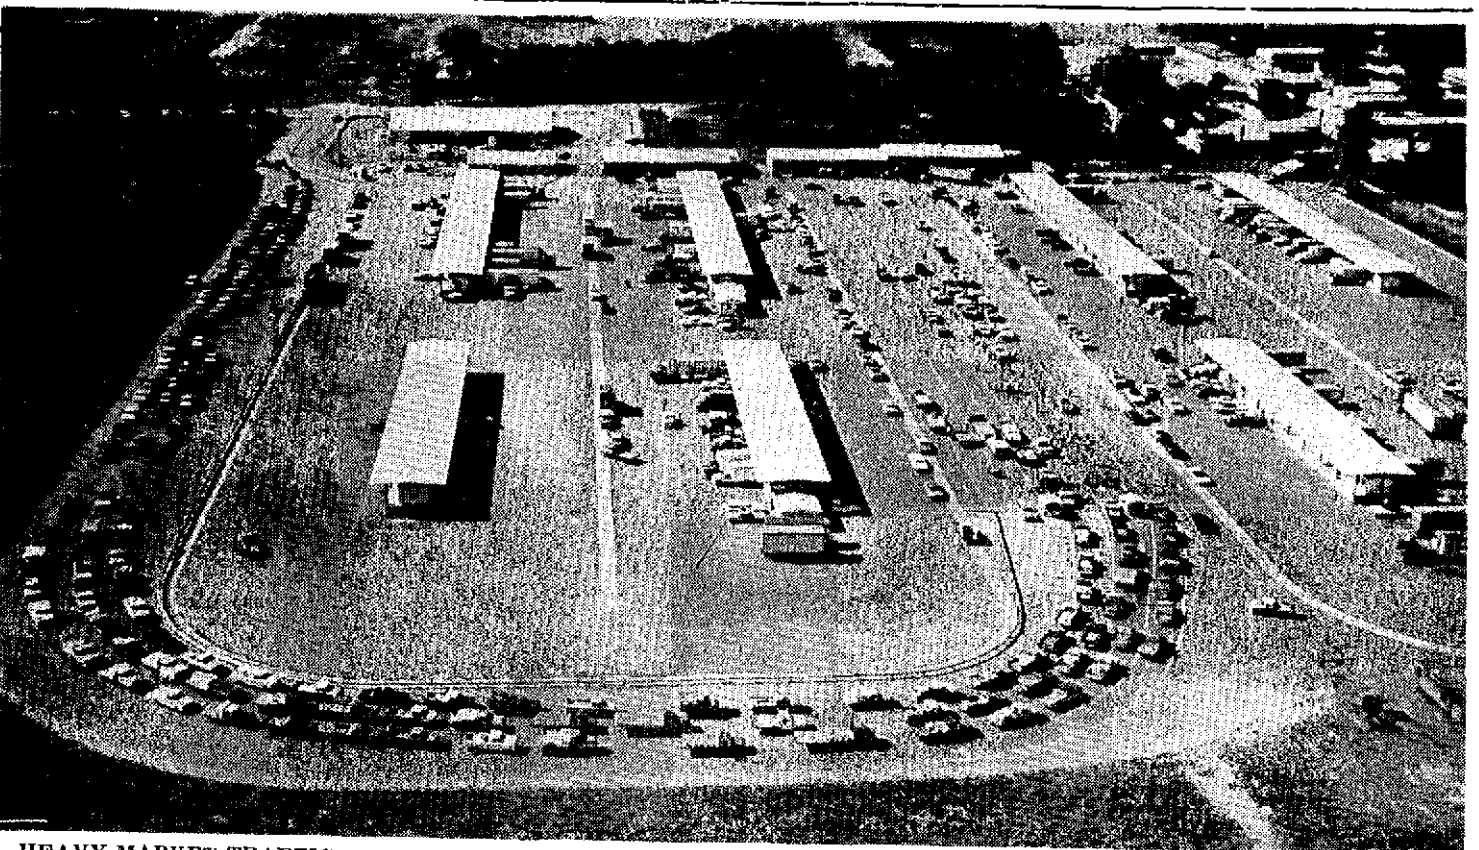

Jurors deliberated slightly more than two hours in Judge Karl F. Zick's court before convicting a 17-year-old Michigan City youth, James Michael Everett, on a charge of receiving and concealing stolen property valued under $100.

It was a conviction on a lesser charge than the original, receiving and concealing stolen property valued over $100 — a 1964 car — on March 22 in New Buffalo township.

Everett was continued free on $500 bond pending sentencing of up to 90 days and or $100 fine.

HEAVY MARKET TRAFFIC: Heavier crops of mid-season fruit and vegetable crops in southwestern Michigan this year, compared to the last two seasons, are putting more traffic on the Benton Harbor fruit market. Peach and tomato seasons both are starting in full swing now. Sunday saw 60 day buyers join regular season buyers, the largest number on any one day since the new market opened in 1967, according to Market Manager

Kenneth Slater. Over 600 grower loads were tallied Sunday. Triple lines of growers trucks here wait to get onto the sales area (right center). Despite "stacking" of rigs in long approach to the sales area, trucks were backed out onto Territorial road for a short period on past weekend. (Aerial photo by Adolph Hann).

Paw Paw Lake Contracts

U.S. Veto May Be Lifted

Federal vetoes apparently will be removed on two construction contracts awarded by the Berrien county public works board

Leuty, May Statements Are Filed

Two commissioner-at-large candidates, Robert W. Leuty and Virgil May, became the last of Benton Harbor's Aug. 3 primary election candidates to file a Friday deadline for filing election expense statements.

Leuty declared "less than $3" in expenses, no receipts and no unpaid debts. May declared "no" in all categories.

Both men were successful in winning spots on the November ballot.

Failing to file statements with County Clerk Forrest Kesterke by Friday's deadline were unsuccessful mayoral candidate F. Joseph Flaugh, and unsuccessful commissioner candidate Pressley Rhodes.

State law provides that those delinquent in filing statements be notified by the county clerk and if still delinquent the county prosecutor must "institute such civil or criminal proceedings as may be appropriate to the facts." But that's rarely, if ever, done.

Two Named To Faculty At LMC

Michael Stone, vice president of instruction at Lake Michigan college, announced two new appointments to the faculty for the upcoming term.

Janet S. Doctor will be an instructor of Spanish, and William E. Camelet, 33, a biology teacher.

Miss Doctor will replace Kay Griggs, who is on a one-year leave of absence for doctoral study at the University of Michigan. Miss Doctor earned her bachelor of arts degree in 1968 from Saint Xavier college in Chicago, and received a master's degree this month from the University of Michigan. She has studied at the University of Madrid in Spain and the Sorbonne in France.

Camelet graduated from Eastern Michigan university in 1965, majoring in chemistry and biology. He earned his doctorate from Wayne State university this August, in biology with specialization in zoology. Dr. Camelet is moving to the area from Taylor, Mich., with his wife and two-year-old daughter.

toward a $12.1 million sewage system for the Paw Paw lake area.

Thomas Sinn, Berrien county planning director, reported Friday that officials of the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) visited Thursday in Chicago by local officials have indicated they will approve the public works board award of $5 million in contracts for construction of a sewage plant interceptor and a collection system in Coloma township. Woodruff & Sons, Inc., of Michigan City won contracts of $1.5 and $3.4 million for the two projects on June 23, followed by an EPA veto of both awards because bidders "did not provide a separate bid for each contract and therefore were not responsive to the invitation for bids." The EPA indicated a change in attitude following discussions Thursday with Sinn and representatives from the county public works engineers and Paw Paw lake-area officials, Sinn said.

Before the change becomes final, however, the EPA first wants the public works board by resolution to formally reject one or perhaps two other bids on the two contracts, Sinn added. The board is expected to make the rejections Aug. 25.

The EPA has a hand in awarding contracts for projects involving federal funds.

The explosion occurred while Koehnke was staying in a trailer at Interlochen and he lit the pilot light on a stove.

Only his immediate family is permitted to visit him now, but Dale would like to receive cards from friends at Blodgett Hospital, Grand Rapids, Mich. 49500.

Children Blamed

Children playing with matches were believed responsible for fires in a garage in Benton Harbor and a field in Benton township. The unrelated blazes were reported Friday.

City firemen said they extinguished a blaze of trash in the bed of a pickup truck, parked in the garage of Olenis Gibson, 800 East High street. Damage was confined to burned paint in the truck bed.

Township firemen said about a quarter-acre of grass and brush burned in the field off Duvar road, near Fair avenue. Firemen in both departments attributed children playing with matches as the apparent causes.

Township firemen Friday afternoon also extinguished a field blaze on the Stanley Wolezak property, off Fikes road, Hagar township.

If potential recruits are shy about coming to him, Chief Morris Greer, USN, is going to them.

Greer, recruiter in charge of the Navy Recruiting office in Benton Harbor, has scheduled a rap session next Tuesday in the Neighborhood Youth Corps office at Benton Harbor junior high, 423 Broadway.

Chief Greer said he has been in Benton Harbor for more than a year, made many lasting friends "but I am very disappointed with minority recruiting here."

He believes it is because young men don't know the real facts about the Navy. "There are more opportunities for blacks in the Navy than there are people to fill the jobs."

Beginning Oct. 1, starting pay will be $300 a month, with food clothing and lodging provided, along with opportunities to learn trades and travel. "All people aren't cut out for military life, but for those who are interested, the Navy is making it more attractive all the time."

Men between the ages of 17 and 25 are invited to the rap session. Chief Greer also holds regular office hours in the recruiting office in the Fidelity building, 188 Pipestone street.

Greer announced 11 area men enlisted at the Benton Harbor office in July. Ten went directly to basic training: Thomas F. Kurland, Lawrence Sherman and Steven Keller, Benton Harbor; Calvin B. Boyd, South Haven; Larry Smith, Coloma; Raymond Anderson, Niles; Mitchell G. Wells and Dale Thompson, Bangor; Michael Standard, Marcellus, and Ricky Baker Stevensville. Alvin Bailey, Buchanan, enlisted in the Navy's Delay Program and will go on active duty in October.

THE BOSS: Big Pete is the Boss Elephant for the Clyde Beatty-Cole Brothers Circus which appears here Sunday under sponsorship of the Benton Harbor Kiwanis club. Performances will be at 2 and 5:30 p.m. at Benton township park.

Two Shows At Benton Township Park

Circus Comes To Town Sunday

The world's largest circus under canvas will pitch its tents in the Benton Harbor area Sunday when the Clyde Beatty-Cole Brothers Circus presents two shows at the Benton township park.

The big show is sponsored by the Benton Harbor Kiwanis club which has presented the circus here several years. Location is the Benton township park on the St. Joseph river, off M-139 on Zollar drive, behind the Ramada Inn.

Showtimes are 2 p.m. and 5:30 p.m. with each performance slated to last two hours. Promoters of the show invite circus buffs to the grounds much earlier to watch the setting up of tents and other maneuvers that involve location for hundreds of persons and animals which are part of the performance under the big top.

The circus moves here from Battle Creek. Advance units will arrive Saturday night, but the big job of making camp will start about 6:45 a.m. Sunday.

Clyde Beatty - Cole Brothers Circus says no other road show is bigger which plays under tent. Their big top this year is $52,000 worth of new canvas to accommodate a three-ring spectacle of 150 human performers plus a menagerie.

Director of the animal circus is Capt. Dave Hoover, hand-picked by the legendary Clyde Beatty, to train the lions. Hoover, like Beatty, has a way with cats based on authority and understanding.

"It's not a question of whether I am ever afraid — as long as the cats never know it. If there was fear and they sensed it — they would take over command," says Hoover. "They could make mince-meat of me in minutes."

Hoover's not the only performers who gets top billing for daring. Les Blocks perform on the high wire with new tricks — three high, riding, walking, carrying.

There are elephants in all three rings, apparently so gentle you want to take one home with you. But these beasts and others in the circus require the commands of their trainers who travel with the Clyde Beatty - Cole Brothers Circus.

The show has an abundant supply of clowns who have been greasepaint and sawdust artists for many years.

Others acts are The Flying Apollos; Maryse Begay, French trapeze artist and other performers of the aerial ballet; plus scores of jugglers, acrobats, balancers, equilibrists, wire walkers and aerialists.

New proceeds go to the Kiwanis Youth Activities fund. Advance tickets are $3 for adults, and $2 for children and can be purchased from Kiwanis and at Robings and Michels in Benton Harbor. Tickets are $1 more at the gate.

Dog Track Enthusiasts Try Again Thursday

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Dog racing enthusiasts lost their first race in the Michigan Senate Friday but prepared to try again this year to revise state racing laws.

The Senate voted 15-14 for the omnibus racing bill that would authorize greyhound racing in Michigan and replace the state's lone racing commissioner with a three-member governing body.

Backers, circulating through the chamber throughout the morning with tally sheets in their hands, figured they had the 20 votes needed to send the bill on to the House for further action.

But with some members absent and others away from the chamber for the vote that came shortly after noon, the count fell short.

Sen. Coleman Young, D-Detroit, a prime sponsor of the bill, immediately moved to reconsider the vote and postponed that second attempt until the Senate reconvenes Thursday.

Before the vote, Young handed around copies of the August issue of Michigan Counties Today, the voice of the Michigan Association of Counties.

That paper contained an open letter to all county commissioners, urging them to contact senators on behalf of the bill.

The letter said the racing bill "is one of the few bills which will provide new revenue for all counties."

"It provides for horse racing reform, two new spectator sports, quarter horse and greyhound racing, available to all of the people of Michigan, new revenue, new fixed tax-base facilities costing more than $30 million, new jobs and increases in existing taxes which local governments share in (such as sales, gasoline and cigarettes), help for county fairs . . ."

The letter also said the "long-time horse track monopoly is opposed to its passage with no concern for needs of counties for more money."

The letter was signed by James McMillan, chairman of Michigan County Commissioners Educational Research, Inc., which publishes the paper.

Opponents of the bill contended, however, that allowing dog racing could further hurt the "sinking sport" of horse racing.

Sen. William Faust, D-Westland, cited reports that betting this year was down 10 per cent from last year at Detroit Race Course. He said track attendance was down 20 per cent.

"What money is going to be made by dogs?" asked Sen. Stanley Novak, D-Detroit. "There is only a certain amount of dollars in a man's pocket that he can use to bet with."

Kentucky Man Van Buren's 3rd Drowning Victim

LAWTON — A Kentucky man became Van Buren county's third 1971 drowning victim when he fell from a small fishing boat in Bangston Lake near here Thursday night.

The victim, Charles M. Pettyjohn, 24, of Imperial Terrace, Ky., fell overboard while fishing with Gary White, 22, on Wolff Lake trailer park, M-43, Mat-tawan.

Pettyjohn was vacationing with his wife and child, according to residents in the area who tried unsuccessfully to revive the victim.

The Van Buren sheriff's department, which investigated the drowning, said there were no life jackets observed in the small boat.

Richard Ludwig, 49, a lake resident, reported he heard a splash, and shouting, about 9:30 p.m., and after alerting neighbors, rowed his own boat to the scene.

Ludwig pulled White from the waters and other residents who rowed to the scene, used a light to detect the victim's white tennis shoes in about eight feet of water.

Ludwig reported that of eight or 10 residents who attempted to help, none were swimmers. The party of the victim was snared by a hook attached to an anchor, Ludwig said. Efforts to revive Pettyjohn were not successful.

"I wanted to dive for him," said Ludwig, an ex-sailor and WW II veteran, "but the others wouldn't let me because I have a heart condition."

The rescue of the victim's companion, White, was the second for Ludwig, who, 25 years ago, pulled a small child from Gravel Lake.

The Hawley funeral home of Paw Paw handled local arrangements. Pettyjohn is to be buried in Kentucky.

SOUTH HAVEN — Fire Caused minor damage to a house trailer owned by James Goodwin, county road 380, South Haven township, Friday night.

2,253 Horses Live In Berrien County

A recently completed horse census of Berrien county revealed that there are 2,253 horses and 1,555 ponies in the county, according to Clare M. Musgrove, Berrien County Extension Director.

The census of all equine animals was taken in each county through Michigan and the U. S. last week in an effort to identify the location and number of horses in the nation.

The census was requested by the U. S. Department of Agriculture as a preventive step in helping to control Venezuelan Equine Encephalomyelitis (VEE) if the disease starts to spread further north.

The highly fatal insect-borne disease of horses and other mammals has caused the death of nearly 1,500 horses throughout the southwest since mid-July.

Musgrove said that a large percentage of the horses in Berrien county are for riding and enjoyment purposes. The county horse census also listed 21 donkeys and 15 mules.

Ed Poole of the Van Buren county extension service said that so far 2,789 equine animals have been counted in Van Buren. The figure is incomplete as four of the county's 18 townships have not been checked yet.

Figures for Allegan and Cass counties are expected to be finalized on Monday and Wednesday, respectively.

Record-Breaking Cass County Fair To Close Tonight

CASSOPOLIS — Cass county's "bigger and better" fair is scheduled to end tonight after a record-breaking week.

Robert Eubank, fair secretary, said yesterday that he expects attendance to hit the 30,000 mark this year.

By noon yesterday, about 25,000 persons had attended the fair which had two nights to go. Eubank said approximately 20,000 attended the fair last year.

"This was quite a changed fair," Eubank said. "There is a much larger amusement and concession spread, half again as much as last year. We have nine major rides, seven excellent kiddie rides, 14 various amusement houses, close to 65 concession stands, plus all the machinery and commercial displays. There are at least 80 commercial displays under roof and approximately 20 large outdoor exhibits of farm machinery and campers."

Livestock sales were wonderful this year, said Kenneth Peterson, a member of the fair board and general superintendent of livestock. The grand champion steer brought more this year than ever before, $1.30 cents a pound as compared to $1.20 last year. All cattle sold for approximately five cents a pound higher.

"Generally all livestock sold higher for two reasons," Peterson said. "We had more buyers from the county and the market for sheep and cattle is higher this year."

"The people of the country are behind us a little bit more than in the past," Peterson said. All we need now to break all records is good weather for today and tomorrow."

Over 100 tractors were entered in yesterday's tractor pull and Eubank predicted large crowds for last night's grandstand attraction, the King Kovas auto daredevil.

Today is Vandalia and Jones day. Scheduled activities for this last day of the fair include: the lightweight pony pull at 9 a.m.; the heavyweight pull at 10:30 a.m.; harness racing at 2 p.m.; and the motorized May-hem at 8 p.m.

Ping Pong Players

Brandywine Hosts Free Chinese

In this country to counter the scheduled American visit of a ping pong team from Communist China, a 10-member team of top ping pong players from Free China on Taiwan has been killed to play at the Brandywine high school gym, Niles, next Wednesday, starting time is 7:30 p.m.

The team from Free China is composed of players selected in competitive matches. Their competition here has not been selected yet. The team will also make stops in Dexter, Grand Rapids, and Muskegon as part of their tour of Michigan next week.

The team's tour is sponsored jointly by the International Council of Christian Churches and the United States March for Victory committee. The appearance in Niles is sponsored by the Michigan New Life March for Victory committee. The Rev. Elvin G. Nyhuis of the Faith Bible Baptist church of Galien is co-chairman of this committee.

The tour is one of the features of a nationwide campaign "Stop Red China" which is to culminate in Washington, D. C., Oct. 23 with a mass rally to oppose the admission of Red China to the United Nations. The Taiwan team arrived in the U. S. Aug. 1.

Dr. Carl McIntire, president of the International Council of Christian Churches and chairman of the United States March for Victory Committee in announcing the tour contrasted the team with the players from Red China also scheduled to come to the U. S. in advance of the United Nations meeting.

"It is essential that all the propaganda in behalf of Red China's recognition and admission to the United Nations, which the ping pong players who visited Red China gave to the cause of communism be dramatically offset," McIntire said.
